RAISING ANGORA GOATS FOR BEAUTIFUL MOHAIR
by Sharon Chestnutt
Philomath, Oregon

With their long luxurious mohair fleeces, Angora goats are the divas of the goat world. I have watched many fall instantly in love with their gorgeous fleeces and extraordinary personalities, load some in their truck and head home. But, Angora goats are sensitive animals — finicky about their care, and rather demanding in their needs. To raise these wonderful animals and utilize their beautiful mohair requires proper care and attention; now all that information is here in one place. This book is the culmination of thirty years of devotion to, and success with, the amazing Angora goat.

RAW MATERIAL WORKING WOOL IN THE WEST

By Stephany Wilkes

“To ensure a brighter future, we need to envision a more sustainable world and summon the grit to make it happen. Wilkes does this in Raw Material, tackling one corner of sustainability, the wool industry, and learning the effort it takes to keep wool local as it moves from sheep to textile.”

L.S. Gardiner, author of Tales from an Uncertain World: What other Assorted Disasters Can Teach Us about Climate Change.

Stephany Wilkes is a sheep shearer certified by the University of California Agricultural and Natural Extension Center, a wool classer certified by the American Sheep Industry Association, and the president of the Northern California Fibershed Cooperative. Stephany speaks about sheep and wool terroir at numerous yarn shops, fiber festivals, schools and events. stehphanywilkes.com

RUMINATIONS OF A GRUMPY SHEPHERD

by Dick Regnery

Whitefish Bay, Wisconsin

Published in 2010, here are stories from one of Black Sheep Newsletter's regular contributors, Dick Regnery, who wrote the column “The View from Whitefish Bay Farm.”

You may have read some of the stories in Ruminations of a Grumpy Shepherd, Random Thoughts from a life of Raising Sheep, but many have not been published in the BSN, especially those written by a favorite ewe, Nanoo, Nanoo. Her reflections on life with the “old bearded guy” and the “nice lady” will tickle your funny bone.

Temple Grandin's Guide to Working with Farm Animals: Safe, Humane Livestock Handling Practices for the Small Farm

Author: Temple Grandin 2017

Editor: Deborah Burns

Published by Storey Publishing (storey.com)

Portions of this book have been excerpted from Dr. Grandin's previous book, Humane Livestock Handling (Storey, 2008).

Award winning author Temple Grandin is famous for her groundbreaking approach to decoding animal behavior. Now she extends her expert guidance to small-scale farming operations. Grandin's fascinating explanations of how herd animals think — describing their senses, fears, instincts, and memories — and how to analyze their behavior, will help you handle your livestock more safely and effectively. You'll learn to become a skilled observer of animal movement and behavior, and detailed illustrations will help you set up simple and efficient facilities for managing a small herd of 3 to 25 cattle or pigs, or 5 to 100 goats or sheep.

"A brilliantly written book that should be required reading for anyone working with livestock. Temple Grandin perfectly verbalizes the common sense and observational skills needed to build healthy, safe, and less stressful working relationships between humans and the animals they keep." Jeanette Beranger, senior programs manager at the Livestock Conservancy.
